Jockey Club Survives Test

(Continued from Page 1) peared before the committee yesterday, the jockey club was told that it had failed to meet the requirements of the proposed bill.

At present, the bill said, parliament betting at the Exhibition track, finance is a loose event agriculture activities of the Exhibition, including the farm jockey club rally, the dairy calf show, farm boys' and girls' camp, fair horse and show, and light horse show, and spring livestock show.

NOT A MONOPOLY

In addition, granting improved plans for the Exhibition grounds will be financed by bond demand for Canadian-produced goods.

Revenue from horse racing is being used to build a new hospital in the city of St. John's. The five-year term expires in June and a new appointment is expected.

Harry Madison, president of the board questioned by the Lucien Maynard, attorney-general and race horse owner, denied that the Exhibition board operated as a monopoly.

"The Exhibition is a community enterprise," Mr. Maynard said. "It goes to any individual as profit. If that is a monopoly, we need more monopolies of that kind."

Mr. Maynard gave the board a tongue lashing for payments it is making to horsemen whose animals participate in the board's race meet.

In Calgary he said horsemen received $24 for each $100 bet in race meets. In Edmonton last year the payment was $18 and in previous years it was less.

WORST ON CIRCUIT

Horsemen's share of the take was the "worst in the western race circuit," Mr. Maynard said.

James Paul, manager of the Exhibition, said special services and stabling of horses provided by the board were compensated for the difference in payments.

Mayor Sid Parsons championed the board's bid, stating the city council had instructed him to oppose passage of the bill. "There is sufficient racing here now—any more would interfere with general business."

A representative of the Edmonton Pressboard of the United Church said his group was "unreservedly opposed to passage of the bill."

Mr. Martland, appearing in behalf of the club, said population increases expected in Edmonton would warrant operation of another race track.

J. J. Spence Corporation, which provided horses for western race meets, was not opposing the formation of the club or operation of another pari-mutuel track.

Final attempt to delay the bill came from R. J. A. Wingblade (SC-Weatkinsin). His motion to strike out one clause permitting pari-mutuel betting was lost in a voice vote.

Labor Body Asks More Employment

Sixteen Point Program Is Outlined To Cabinet

OTTAWA, March 31.—(CP)—Taxing the government with trying to "minimize the seriousness" of unemployment, the Canadian Congress of Labor today asked the cabinet to launch a seven-fold program to boost the amount of available work.

In its annual submission to the government, the $600-million CCL said changes in Canadian economic and social institutions might be needed.

It placed emphasis on a demand for a planned effort to increase consumption of Canadian goods at home and abroad—and to keep increasing it as fast as the country's productive power grew.

Chiefs of the Congress, under the leadership of Minister St. Laurent, said the cabinet at a meeting in the Parliament building. Earlier this month, the government had received representations from the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor.

SIXTEEN POINTS
The CCL brief made recommendations on several political, social and economic matters, but it was launched at the cabinet conference in January.

2. Hospital workers who "naturally" would be unemployed by the government, but this "won't extend to those who go for patients."

3. Maintenance of consumer demand by circulating more money through a broad social-security program.

4. Diversification of industry to encourage mobility of labor and to draw regional unemployment.

5. Action to curb seasonal fluctuations in employment.

RENT CONTROLS
6. Use of the government's "rainy day" shell of public enterprise projects which the cabinet earlier agreed the T.C.C. does not propose to use at this time.

7. New methods of keeping and expanding foreign markets.

8. Adoption of the 40-hour work week, which by reducing hours of work would tend to spread employment.

9. Other recommendations included:

1. Increase in benefit payments and other changes in unemployment insurance coverage.

2. Housing measures including the lowering of interest charges, encouragement of a group of cooperative projects and greater development of subsidized, low-rent housing.

3. Maintenance of "strict" control of rents.

RESTRICT INFLUX
4. Every effort to prevent further increase in the cost of living.

5. Extension of the coverage of the federal labor code and changes in several provisions.

6. Continuation of the government's present policy on radio broadcasting.

7. Federal financial aid education.

8. An immigration policy which would hold down mass immigration in view of shortage of housing and unemployment.

9. Federal aid in providing for additional Canadian markets for commodities in Canada.

The vacancy in Hamilton West resulted from the appointment of former mines minister Gibson to the Ontario supreme court.

Hormones Made Radio-Active

MONTREAL, March 31.—(CP)—McGill University scientists announced they have successfully made radio-active hormones for use in studying such diseases as cancer, high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries and rheumatoid arthritis.

Radio-active carbon from the atomic pile at Canada's Chalk River, Ont., plant and the United States Oak Ridge station is incorporated into the complex molecules of the hormones. Because each of the molecules has a radioactive "tracer," medical researchers can then trace its path through the human body.

Woman To Hang July 7 For Killing Daughter

RIMOUSKI, Que., March 31.—(BUP)—A 45-year-old housewife today was sentenced to the gallows July 7 for the gunshot slaying of her 19-year-old daughter last April 5.

Mrs. Elsie Plante-Dube of MacLure St. Rimouski, Que., listened all unmoved as Judge Wilfred Edge announced the death penalty before a half-empty courtroom.

The middle-aged brunette was convicted last night of her daughter's murder after a quarrel in their home over the affection of another man.

Mrs. Plante-Dube shot her daughter blank at a drinking party while many of her friends looked on.

The two-day murder trial ended when Foreman Marc Pettigrew announced the verdict of guilty after a 12-man jury had deliberated for 70 minutes.

As the impassive-looking woman was led from the courtroom, reporters attempted to get her to comment on her sentence.

"I have nothing to say," she replied quickly.

Bunco Trial For Girl, 19

VICTORIA, March 31.—(CP)—A 19-year-old girl who has looked like voodoo to Mrs. Anna Dorrer of Buffalo, N.Y., but to New York state police and Mr. Justice A. D. MacFarlane here it looked like a suicide.

He ordered pretty, 19-year-old Tina Kasov extradited to Buffalo on a bunco charge.

She is wanted to answer a charge that she and her mother, Catherine Dennis, with the aid of a drinking glass, an egg and a couple of handkerchiefs, swindled Mrs. Dorrer out of $2,000. Police also charge Tina Kasov with jumping $4,000 bail.

Admittance read in court said Mrs. Dorrer was told by Miss Kasov and her mother that she was cured of a "rare" disease after the Buffalo woman had watched the pair say magic incantations over the egg, glass and handkerchiefs. Then, Dorrer "invented" $2,000 in their supernatural ability.

AMA Protests 25 mph Limit

Fixed speed limit of 25 miles an hour is not wanted by the Alberta Motor Association.

Objections were raised today over the section in the bill amending the Vehicle and Highway Traffic Act, which proposes to establish an arbitrary speed limit of 25 miles per hour in any city, town, village or hamlet.

FOR CONVICTIONS?

This move was taken by C. H. Grant, counsel for the association who said representations against the legislation have been made to Hon. C. K. Gorham, provincial secretary.

Formerly a person exceeding the 25 miles an hour limit was given an opportunity of defence by showing the excess speed was reasonable at the time.

Amendment, however, would allow no elasticity of the limit under any circumstances.

Calgary Power Sales Still High

Edmonton's power plant last week and more power to Calgary. Power that is only consumers for the fourth successive week.

As far as it can ascertain, said Mr. Grant, "this seems to come as a request from the police and is instigated with the motive of ascertaining more convictions."

No Losses, All Gains

The crux of the argument about the Delwiler civic centre proposal lies in the definite assurance of City Commissioner John Hodgson that the project cannot possibly increase the mill rate and very likely will reduce it.

Commissioner Hodgson is neither impulsive nor speculative in temperament. Indeed, his long experience in Edmonton's civic life has inclined him to a conservative viewpoint.

When he says, backed up by Mayor Sidney Parsons, that the Delwiler plan will make money for Edmonton and cost Edmonton nothing, taxpayers and citizens alike may be sure that he has taken every factor into account and knows exactly what he is talking about.

Opposition to the plan by certain interested parties is inevitable. But the attempt to excite the fears of all the burgoes by dark hints about a zooming mill rate is utterly pusill.

As Commissioner Hodgson declares, the mill rate is not threatened at all by the proposal. On the contrary, if the city's 25 per cent share of the net revenue from the centre should exceed $250,000, as everything indicates it will do, the mill rate might be reduced.

Another factor that could reduce the mill rate is the enhancement of property values in downtown Edmonton. The larger the assessment in the business area, the smaller will be the tax load the homeowners must carry.

At the public hearing by the municipal law committee of the legislature on Wednesday, no one could show that the city could lose anything through the completion of the Delwiler agreement.

On the other hand, it is clear that Edmonton and Edmonton people stand to make these gains:

1. Auditorium, museum, market and parking facilities, which plan to themselves in any city, but which Edmonton would have to construct sooner or later at a probable total cost of $7,500,000.

2. A 25 per cent share of the centre's net revenue.

3. A business tax amounting to approximately $250,000 annually.

4. Parking facilities to the advantage of every merchant and business man in the downtown area.

5. A unique and beautiful development which will give Edmonton favorable publicity in every corner of North America.

And what does all this cost the city and the taxpayer?

Absolutely nothing.

It is the greatest bargain ever offered to any city on the continent.

No Racial Objections in Alberta

The Alberta government does well to prohibit, by act of the legislature, any possible attempt by Doukhobors or others to establish religious or racial colonies in this province.

This bill, which provides that colonies not established in the province before May 1947 may not acquire Alberta land without the consent of the lieutenant-governor-in-council, is not only directed at a probably specific attempt to do so but is aimed at establishing a general principle with regard to immigration in this province.

The specific intention is to prohibit the Hutite colonies near Macleod is up for sale by members who plan to migrate to Mexico and that Doukhobors are planning to buy it in.

Now the Hutites are a quiet, respectable people who do not dynamite schools and wreck trains. But even their isolated communities have been objectionable because their very isolation has set them apart from the national life of Canada and their members never become Canadian.

Silly Secrecy About

Few thinking citizens will seriously dispute the wisdom of paying Donald Gordon $45,000 a year as CNR president.

But many are likely to question Transport Minister Chervier's refusal to disclose what salaries CNR vice-presidents receive, or to say how many other officials receive more than $10,000 a year.

It is to be hoped that members of parliament will take up the question of routing out these undisclosed facts.

The CNR is the property of all the people of Canada. Its years of continuous operation in the red should be the concern of every last citizen.

It is to be expected that a man of high ability should be chosen to head the system's operation. A $45,000 per year salary to the right man is money well spent, because the right man should be chosen many times that amount to the people of this country.

If Hutite colonies have been objectionable, what Doukhobor colonies whose Sons of Freedom sect is in open rebellion against the law in British Columbia?

The general principle the government wishes to establish is that those who settle in Alberta must be prepared to adopt the Canadian way of life, to fit into the Canadian economy and the Canadian social structure.

This principle is so utterly sound and necessary that it is difficult to imagine any reasonable, competent man cannot be persuaded to accept it.

Thousands of Scandinavians and Ukrainians and Poles and Germans and members of other races have settled in Alberta in years past, and with few exceptions, have become excellent citizens because they have become an indistinguishable part of Canadian life. They have become a real asset to the province.

There is no room here for foreign nationals who wish to perpetuate on Canadian soil the feuds and grudges and fanatic doctrines of Europe.

CNR Salaries

Other executive posts, filled with competent administrators, should carry proportionate salaries. With that contention there can be little dispute.

What good reason can therefore be advanced by Mr. Chervier or by any other cabinet minister for not making public what is nothing more nor less than the public's money?

It is possible that the system is overloaded with executives being paid more than they are worth?

Or can it be that salaries paid are so ridiculously high that competent men cannot be recruited for what should be a high form of public service?

Mr. Chervier can dispel much doubt by merely releasing the information. With the same stroke he can do much to build public confidence in the CNR's operation.

U.S. Congressmen May Secretly Want Crop Failure

WASHINGTON—Our government is storing grain in great quantities, banded airplanes, banded ships, and for what purpose?

—old also boxes, wrecked autos, and laundry bags.

We have so much wheat on hand now that if not used more it will be plenty of bread to go around.

And finding myself among some of America's leading grain specialists, I asked one of them what they were going to do.

"Burned if I know," he said.

The solution is obvious: larger farmers. Let us encourage Square Mouth, who directs his rural enterprise from a hummocky hill in his own patch, and who never has seen the dawn in his life, except when coming in a little late from the night before.

This sounds like heavy-handed government. I know, but there's a small vein of seriousness in it. The problem of farm surpluses is desperate and rapidly growing desperate. Now we've got the agriculture department asking for another $200,000,000 to the Commodity Credit Corp. can buy up more crops from farmers and then where to put 'em on account of all the bina being full.

Grain Just Won't Vanish

It's easy enough, though costly, to get potatoes, blue and berry crops, to dry eggs and let 'em grow state in a Kansas cave, but grain storage is practically impossible. Corn taken from Iowa today is still in the state.

What is the worst? The government's grain storage committee is trying to decide whether to give the CCC the extra billions it wants and it is asking leaders in the grain trade for advice.

Some of the big grain millers in the business, claim the government's corporation suddenly has become by far the largest grain trader in the world. By spring, they say, it will have temporary storage capacity for 45,000,000 bushels, or more than all the privately owned elevators in America.

They charge further that the CCC is turning into another mighty government bureaucracy, which unless red tape is cut, will be a disaster.

They cite specific examples to show that a mail selling a car would be a disaster. The CCC is so big that it gets all his money six months later. They doubt, as they say, that the government's grain buyers will get any more efficient.

Too Bulky For Chunks

"You just can't turn an elephant around in a hard cage," explained Edmund Marshall, vice-president of the Bureau of Grain, of Kansas City, in telling why the government's grain buyers couldn't speed up its bookkeeping.

Nobody among the wheat and corn dealers would put it in so many words: neither would the Congressmen, but I get the idea that some of them were wishing for a crop failure. That the more without it shall be measured to you again—Luke 6:38 and precise picture of conditions in Alberta's lumber camps.

In a building 40' x 25' are housed some 18 old men, and enough room in a corner for washing facilities which are none too good. Sanitary conditions are extremely bad, mattresses are filthy and the air is foul.

We have showers here as well, but are unable to make proper use of them due to faulty plumbing and dirty bathrooms.

Am of the understanding that we have people who are employed by the Department of Health to look into the matters, but I have yet to see a Health Inspector who takes enough interest in the general health and welfare of our lumberworkers.

Now I wish to write a few lines to the conditions in the cookhouse. Although people are made to believe that the lumberworker is one of the best fed in any industry, this is far from the truth. Although food is plentiful, the quality of same is extremely poor for the price that we are compelled to pay.

Sitting facilities at the tables are extremely overcrowded. These conditions prevail throughout a large percentage of Alberta's lumbercamps. It is about time that the Government, through the Department of Health, should take some action to improve the conditions in the lumber camps.

SLAP-BASHED Andrews, giving way years forms powerful plot for Samuel Goldwyn's production "My Foolish Heart." Film, which starts today at Capitol Theatre, stars Dana Andrews and Susan Hayward.

Andrews and Hayward Are Capitol's Stars

Wartime love affair and its bitter aftermath make up the emotional drama of Samuel Goldwyn's "My Foolish Heart," starring Dana Andrews and Susan Hayward.

Starting today at the Capitol Theatre, the film casts Andrews as a young man-about-town who craves parties and plays the waltz while waiting for the war to come.

Susan Hayward, playing the college girl whose romance with him ends in tragedy, has a highly demanding role that makes her a leading contender for the 1950 Academy Award.

Adapted from The New Yorker short story, "Uncle Wiggily in Connecticut" by J. D. Salinger, the film opens in 1948 as a cynical, tippling young man faces the break-up of his unhappy marriage. But the screenplay flashes back to 1941 as he recalls the ill-fated romance that made her marry without love to shield her expected child.

Four leading Broadway players, Robert Keith, Kent Smith, Louis Wheeler and Jessie Royce Landis, and Goldwyn's talented child actress, Gigi Perreau, head the supporting cast.

SECESSION OF NORTH ONTARIO AGAIN URGED

FORT WILLIAM, March 31.—(CP)—Secession from the rest of Ontario—a recurring suggestion for 20 years—has been proposed again at the Lakeshore. Hubert Linnick, former alderman of Fort William, said a new province called "Aurora" should be established in northwestern Ontario. The name, he said, would be symbolic of the "golden dawn of a new day, bringing a new light to the people of northern Ontario" after years of misadministration of the north's potentialities by the government at Toronto.

Bachelors Call Truce On Dating

By VIRGINIA MACPHERSON
Exclusive To The Bulletin
HOLLYWOOD, March 31.—(BUP)—Nice flingmen bachelors tossed a ping dinner last night to organize "operation hands-off"—a promise not to date each other's girls. And there were a few embarrassing moments when they started comparing telephone numbers.

The eligible wolves included Scott Brady, Lex Barker, Gail Young, John Howard, Anthony Curtis, and Douglas Dick—all actors—pianist Andre Previn, designer Steve Stanford, and writer Blake Edwards.

SIX DATE SAME GIRL
They brought their "little black books" along to make things easier. Seems the boys have found out that when it comes to rattling off hot telephone numbers.

From the looks of the same started doubling up. That's where the fireworks came in.

At least six of the "eligibles" had one girl's private number on their "preferred page."

"Tarzan" Barker got a little pink when we discovered his current girl friend's name in Scott Brady's book.

"That's not all," he growled. "He's got my ex-wife in there, too."

Brady's book had more names than anybody's.

LOTS OF GIRLS MARRIED
Some of the gents admitted they were heading a little on the dead-end.

"I brought along my 'D' book," one of 'em said. "Think I'd trust my 'A' numbers to these wolves!"

Plenty of the girls in these private books have acquired husbands since the boys jotted down their numbers.

"But we never cross 'em," said John Howard straggled. "We just wait a while, that's all."

The bachelors found their seats in the Ming Room by girls' pictures dotted around the table as place cards.

There was an awkward moment when pianist Previn and writer Edwards discovered they were sharing a photograph of Gloria De Haven.

"She used to be my girl," Previn explained. "Now, I understand, she goes with Blake."

Inside Hollywood

By Bob Thomas
HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Ann Sheridan is enlarging her home, but not to accommodate a husband. She lives alone and (she says) likes it.
She altered her San Fernando Valley home, adding about 35 feet to each room, she says. Being a collector of things—particularly perfume, antique china and French linens—she needed more space.
She also added a swimming pool and bath house. She and her companion, Martha Bach, will move back into the home next month.
Despite her long romance with publicist Steve Harnisch, Ann has no marriage plans. Said she: "I tried it twice (with Edward Norris and George Brent). I'm happy the way I am. If I think I can't very carefully before I try it again."

THEORY OF FAILURE
Director Alfred Hitchcock has a theory on why "Strimbold" failed to win critical acclaim.
"I don't forget that Russell was working most of the time with English dialogue," he observed. "Being an Italian, he cannot understand the American idiom. Lines that sounded dramatic had stirring in Italian might seem silly when translated into English."

CAPSULE REVIEW
"Cheaper by the dozen" (TCF) is a cure for the box-office blues. Following the bestselling book it presents a warning account of a large American family. The plot is actually a string of incidents which contain enough humor and heart to to engross any audience. After playing changeable parts with a hearty purveyor of things—particularly perfume, antique china and French linens—she needed more space.

She also added a swimming pool and bath house. She and her companion, Martha Bach, will move back into the home next month.

Asks U.S. Probe Meat Imports From Canada

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(AP)—Rep. Walt Horan (Rep. Wash.) asked the Tariff Commission yesterday to investigate complaints that imports from Canada are injuring meat processors in the Pacific Northwest.
"The result has been a serious decline in the sale of similar products processed through plants in the Pacific Northwest states and the laying off of an alarming number of workers in that industry in that area," said Horan.
"This has been possible by reason of the fact that the reduced tariff and the lower wage scale paid Canadian packing house workers enable purveyors of imported meats to undercut the products of our own workers."

Irish Police Leaves After 42 Years

WINNIPEG, March 31.—(CP)—A son of Erin, lured here in 1906 by advertisements of rich lands in Manitoba, walked out of the Rupert Avenue police station Thursday with a record of 42 years on the force.

Inspector James Bruton was a brother of a boy when he took to tilling the soil described in Manitoba-sponsored advertisements "all over Ireland" as the richest in the world. He traded the plowman's furrows for a beat after a few bicycles.

He recalls the days when there were only 45 men on the force, and horse-drawn vehicles were the only "traffic problems."

"If we got an accident call we went out to it by street car."

THIRD HIGHEST
His 42-year spell with the force is the third highest in Winnipeg force annals. Promotions came regularly until he was made an inspector in 1908.

Inspector Bruton is not the only policeman in the family which originated in Dublin county. His brother Martin recently retired as chief of the Regina force.

The tall, white-haired inspector, who still has a trace of the brogue, is undecided about retirement plans. He may travel, but meanwhile "there's the garden in summer and lots of good reading in winter."

JACOBY on Canasta

FOR BEGINNERS—3

Last time we left North putting down a red three and drawing a card to replace it. After the replacement, his hand contains the following cards: A-A-K-Q-Q-J-9-7-7-7.

The card at the top of the discard pile is a queen, and North remembers that the card under the queen is a seven. That seven is not to be seen, because each discard is put down in such a way as to cover the previous discards, but North can remember one card back. A good player can remember a lot more than that.

North would like to pick that queen up, but he cannot do so. He must meld 30 points to meet the minimum count requirement, and all he can manage at this moment is 45 points—30 points for the three queens and 15 points for the three aces.

Notice that North would actually be able to meld four aces if he picked up the discard pile, because he knows that the pile contains a seven. Nevertheless, North is permitted to count only the top discard and no other discards towards his minimum count.

Since North cannot pick up the discard pile he must draw the top card of the stock. As it happens, he draws a deuce.

Now the situation is changed, for North is now able to make a meld of at least 30 points—if he wishes to do so. For example, he might put down ace-ace-deuce, counting 30 points, or he might put down queen-queen-deuce together with the three aces, counting 30 points straighter. Or he might even meld ace-ace-deuce and the three aces, counting 75 points.

North is not obliged to meld anything at all. Actually, he doesn't meld at this time. He simply discards one of his aces. This is an advanced play, so we don't have to go into his reasons at this time. We merely note that a player doesn't have to meld if he doesn't want to.

FOR EXPERIENCED PLAYERS
As experienced players we can discuss North's reasons for not melding with the hand given in the first part of this article.

The only meld North would consider in ace-ace-deuce, using up only three cards. It would be the height of folly to put down the three aces also.

If North makes this meld, he must use his only wild card. He will therefore need points to take the discard pile, so that he can get the pile off if a seven or a queen is thrown to him.

If North merely discards without melding, he will still be in position to take the pile if a queen or seven is thrown to him. If he draws another deuce at his next turn, he can meld the ace with one of the deuces at that time. Moreover, if he draws another ace at his next turn, he can meld three aces and save his wild card to help him get the discard pile later on.

In other words, North should try to save at least one wild card in his hand after he has melded. If he cannot do so, he should not be in such a hurry to meld.

Missing Family Found On Trail After 24 Days

FARBRANKS, Alaska, March 31.—(AP)—After 24 days on the trail with their dog team, Mr. and Mrs. Judson Hughes and their 14-month-old daughter have been found safe at Old Rampart trading post on the Alaska-Canada border.

They left Old Crow in Yukon territory, March 6, heading for Fort Yukon.

Fort Yukon pilot Ed Tossaint discovered them while he was making a routine flight.

The Hughes family will continue to Fort Yukon via airplane although reporting they reached Rampart with the dog team without difficulty.

First Big Gang Hired For Pipe Line Project

By Kenneth Lamb

Exclusive to The Bulletin

REGINA, March 31.—(BUP)—A giant $90,000,000 oil pipeline project today gave jobs to the first of an expected 1,200 Canadians who hoped shortly to complete nine miles of pipe a day across the west.

Truman Says Criticism Is 'Sabotage'

Exclusive to The Bulletin

KEY WEST, Fla., March 31.—(BUP)—President Truman today threw into the 1950 congressional campaign the harsh accusation that his GOP opposition was willing to "sabotage" American foreign policy and endanger world peace for sake of a political issue.

He said efforts of some Republican leaders to torpedo bipartisan foreign policy during the cold war were just as bad as trying to shoot our soldiers in the back in a hot war.

He picked out three Republican senators—Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin, Kenneth S. Wherry of Nebraska and Styles Bridges of New Hampshire—as primary targets for his "sabotage" accusation. Mr. McCarthy has been the moving force behind a Senate investigation of alleged disloyalty in the State Department.

The greatest asset that the Kremlin has is the partisan attack in the Senate to sabotage the bipartisan foreign policy of the United States. The president told newsmen here.

COMMENT ON CHARGE
In Washington Sen. McCarthy said he would "plead guilty to sabotaging foreign policy in the far east . . . I wish someone had sabotaged it sooner." He said the State Department's policy was to turn over all of Asia to the Communists.

Senator Wherry said the people—and not the president—should decide "who is harboring subversive and moral perverts" in the government.

Sen. Bridges said the only "sabotage" he wants to commit is against "subversive and security risks" so that they will be thrown out of preferred spots in the government.

2 News Men Ordered Out

Exclusive to The Bulletin

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, March 31.—(BUP)—The Czechoslovak government refused today to renew accreditation as a correspondent for John R. Higgins, 30, United Press bureau manager here.

Bedrich Runge, assistant foreign office press chief, said Higgins would have to leave the country within 15 days.

Runge said the Czechoslovak government could not renew accreditation because Higgins had a "tendency to unobjective reporting."

On Wednesday Associated Press correspondent Nathan Polowetzky was told by Runge his accreditation could not be renewed.

The government last week granted a visa to Russell Jones, a United Press correspondent.

Yesterday the government accredited three western newsmen—Dana Adams Schmidt, New York Times; Robert Bigio, Reuters; and Gaston Fournier, Agence France Presse.

All correspondents in Czechoslovakia must be re-accredited every three months.

Athabasca Youth Sent To Trial For Shooting

Special to The Bulletin
ATHABASCA, March 31.—Walter Meronik, 19, of Athabasca district will be tried in next sitting of Supreme Court in Edmonton on a charge of attempting to murder his father.

He was ordered to trial yesterday at a preliminary hearing in Athabasca.

The incident occurred on May 21, 1947 following a dispute the day previous with his father, Metro, who had his son ordered out of both a beer parlor and pool hall. The son was 16 years of age at the time.

The son borrowed a rifle and went to his father's farm two miles away. He was alleged to have fired two shots at his father, one creating his forehead. A poster brother, endeavoring to take the weapon from Walter who had turned it on himself, suffered chest wounds.

NOT SERIOUS
Neither the father nor the brother was badly injured and Walter was taken into custody and later brought to Ponoka for observation.

He escaped the mental institution at Ponoka and was recently arrested in the United States for illegal entry and returned to Athabasca.

Magistrate R. E. Baynes conducted the preliminary hearing, and Col. A. M. Ross of Athabasca presided.

CNR-Imperial Oil In Sask. Oil Deal

Three Million Acres of Land Involved in Transaction

OTTAWA, March 31.—(CP)—The world's monetary and exchange troubles are hitting the Canadian National Steamship business.

As a result, the ship fleet is the land and if oil was found to be a shaky year ahead, budgeting for its first net operating deficit since World War II.

Before the committee approved the steamship budget, as well as that of the CNR, it considered these developments:

IMPERIAL OIL DEAL
E. D. Fulton (PC—Kamloops) called for a motion to compel Mr. Gordon to disclose details of an agreement entered into by the CNR with a Canadian oil company to explore CNR lands in Saskatchewan for oil.

Mr. Fulton was voted down 11 to 5 after Mr. Gordon made one disclosure, that the company involved in the Imperial Oil Company of Canada.

INVOLVES 3 MILLION ACRES
The division was called after Mr. Gordon tabled a statement in which he set out reasons why he could not divulge details of the agreement covering some 3,000,000 acres of land in Saskatchewan.

One of them was that the company involved also was in the business of making oil deals with other holders of mineral rights. It had acquired "strong experience" in making details of this business deal known.

Another was the indication that Mr. Fulton believed the deal had been consummated. It had not. It was a continuing one in which Imperial Oil had an option to rent

Alberta Rail Briefs Defend Pass Rates

OTTAWA, March 31.—(CP)—Launching the first phase of its battle to abolish Western Canada's low freight rates on grain, the "Canadian Pacific Railway" yesterday accused prairie governments and grain interests of "almost incredible exaggeration" in opposing its move.

The last bombardment against the special "Crow's Nest Pass" rates—which the west calls its "bill of rights"—was opened before the Royal Commission on transportation by Ian Sinclair, CPR counsel, who contended a sizeable rate increase would not be harmful to the grain trade.

He criticized the argument of western interests—particularly the prairie governments—that increasing the statutory rates would be "ruinous" to the grain economy of the west.

ONLY SMALL PART
Mr. Sinclair declared the railways were only a relatively small part of the cost of getting grain to the export market and doubling them "would only amount to a 10 per cent increase on the present value of the normal western wheat crop."

The special rates originally were set into effect under an agreement in 1910, whereby the CPR obtained government help in building a line over the Crow's Nest Pass in the Rockies into the rich southern British Columbia area. With some modifications they were embodied in legislation in 1953.

Final evidence in support of reducing the rates at their present levels and under the direct control of parliament was received from

Ulster Premier Postpones Visit; Refuses Reasons

LONDON, March 31.—(CP)—Sir Basil Brooke, premier of Northern Ireland, postponed his departure for the United States and Canada today for several days for "personal reasons."

He had been scheduled to sail today on the liner Queen Mary. Instead he and Lady Brooke, accompanied by his secretary, will be in London for several days.

Brooke's decision to postpone his departure followed by some 36 hours a visit by the U.S. house of representatives to deny British further Marshall plan aid unless the ends the partition of Ireland.

Most Spied-Upon Man Leaves Government Job

By DON GILBERT
LONDON, March 31.—(CP)—A man whose job was to spy on a stump or add millions to the value of British government securities has left the government job.

Called the most spied-upon man in London Stock Exchange, Sir Edward Cripps is retiring, at government request. After 14 years, his place will be taken by 40-year-old Derek Mullins.

Sir Edward, a grizzled red-faced man in his 60s, buys and sells stocks and shares for government departments, National Debt Commissioners and Bank of England.

These among their jobs have been: Elizabeth of Great Britain's debt. Every morning Sir Edward has a talk with the directors of the bank of England. From then on his movements are probably the most closely watched in London.

The mere appearance of Sir Edward's figure, through the door leading to the stock exchange, brings a flurry of excitement in the market. A still be him around the city.

Sir Edward is not related to Sir Stafford Cripps, chancellor of the exchequer.

Sir Edward has been government banker 15 years and holds the post as senior member of the Institute of Finance and Commerce. This concern has handled the government business for 120 years. Derek Mullins, Sir Edward's successor, is a great-grandson of the first holder of the job.

The Cripps family are in the northern province in the Moss House (Thames), between Africa and

Reds' Union Intrigue Exposed By Ex-Commy

In a wooden cabin in a snow-covered valley, 70 miles outside of Montreal, Arthus Beaupre, former organizer of the United Textile Workers' Union (AFL), has taken refuge. He and his wife are hiding out after threats against his life for having denounced the union as Communist-dominated. In the following exclusive article he gives the background to the union fight—Editor.

By Arthus Beaupre
Exclusive to the Bulletin

SOMEWHERE IN QUEBEC, March 31.—(BUP)—I decided in 1947 not to renew my membership in the Labor Progressive (Communist) party.

Then I started hearing stories about how I was betraying the interests of my 2,000-member local at the Dominion Textiles Company in Montreal.

There was a campaign of slander and distortion to discredit me in the eyes of the workers, many of whom I knew for years.

REDS RECRUIT STRIKERS

I was fed up with the tactics of the UTW leadership. The interests of the workers were being sacrificed whenever possible on the altar to try to divide members of the Labor Progressive party.

For instance, during the strike of textile workers at Valleyfield, Que. in 1948 the occasion was used to conduct secret meetings in homes of some strikers at which Communism was preached. I know they were able to recruit party members this way.

During the 1948 strike appeared on the scene.

It got pretty disgusting to realize that LPM members always managed to become active during strikes by the UTW.

The policy of the Canadian division of the UTW has been to control the go-go in each local. For that reason it was desirable that we organize join different locals and try, if possible, to displace of the executive.

Where They Look and What They See

PEEPHOLES IN FENCE are making life easier for sidewalk superintendents on Macdonald hotel extension job. Great thing, says Robbie, three, as his mother, Mrs. P. Newson, 9640-81 avenue, holds him up for peek.

AND THIS is what superintendents see when they peek through fence. Excavation work is proceeding on schedule. Peeperholes are something new for Edmontonians who like to know what's going on. Suggestion came from Bulletin's columnist Jack DeLong who now lists Frank Adby as construction man of the month.

Conductor Forced to Tell Audience Concert Is Over on the TOWN...

Some unfunny notions that came after staring at the wall for half an hour, trying to think of something funny: Surest way to bring your nose racing to your bus stop. Just light a fresh cigarette. . . Surest bet on earth: That a woman will pass lots of empty seats at the front of the bus and then stand up at the back. Most popular subject of discussion in the last month: Flying saucers. . . Best way of making sure of being late for work: Just lie in bed 10 minutes after the alarm goes off.

Comin' round the Mountain

One hundred and five years of railroading is a lot of railroading. Three CNR men, all veteran members of Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, Edson Lodge No. 861, have come to celebrate that many years.

They are conductor M. H. Pettigrew, Edson; trainman G. G. Dedrick, Edson; and A. N. Loney, baggageman, at Edmonton. They are going to quit railroading soon. One week from next Sunday there's going to be a big farewell luncheon for this trio in the Masonic Temple. Secretary-Treasurer Stan Askin of Lodge 861 wants all members to turn out for this do.

Weather forecast: Cloudy, with occasional flying saucers.

And about those flying saucers. Something funny is going on. What do you say to this:

Miss Anna Hrimmer of 10726-95 avenue telephoned me yesterday morning to say she saw flying saucers at least five or six times from the balcony of her second-story flat last summer.

Only they weren't saucers. "They looked just like large opals in the sky," says Miss Hrimmer.

She says objects had bases easily distinguished and it looked as if they might have windows.

She also says the "things" seemed to almost stop and then disappeared at terrific speed but not before dropping small light objects on each occasion.

Goah! If this sort of thing keeps up much longer we'll be interviewing people who have never seen flying saucers.

Why should the Exhibition Association worry about an Edmonton flag in the welcome-home parade for the Mercury hockey champs, asks blacksmith Jimmy Dawson.

"What's wrong with the good old Union Jack," says Mr. Dawson.

Passover Celebration Starts Saturday Night

The Jewish festival of Passover will be ushered in Saturday night and will be celebrated eight days, terminating Sunday evening, April 8.

On the first two evenings, April 1 and 2, the feast known as Seder will be observed in Jewish homes as a family gathering.

A special children's Seder will be held by congregation Beth Shalom under the auspices of the Sisterhood. Rabbi B. Leon Hurwitz will officiate.

Greetings will be extended on behalf of the Sisterhood by Mrs. L. A. Miller, president.

Passover, known as the season of freedom, commemorates Israel's liberation from Egyptian bondage.

Tickets of appreciation were presented to Cub staff members, M. White, A. Christianson, and L. Christianson by Mrs. E. Campbell, president of the Cub and Scout Mothers' Association.

Denies Report
LONDON, March 31.—(Reuters)—Hugh Gaittelli, minister of state for economic affairs, today said Britain is not considering asking Canada to accumulate sterling balances for current sterling requirements. He was replying in the House of Commons to Charles Taylor, Conservative, who asked whether he would consider making an offer to pay for Canadian food products with sterling.

APPLAUSE STARTLING

Edmonton's 14-15th Street will have the satisfaction of knowing they stole a little thunder last night from the famed Minneapolis Symphony orchestra.

The varied, comparatively light, program brought continuing rounds of applause from an enthusiastic audience in the Stock Pavilion.

At intermission and the conclusion of the program, dynamic, Hungarian-born conductor Antal Dorati was called back repeatedly. At the end, he obliged the instant audience with two encores and then was forced to tell them the program was at an end.

Musicians appeared taken aback as the hooter-loving mob's clappers burst into cheer.

The vigorous Hungarian showed complete mastery of his work and perfect control at all times as he led the 80-piece orchestra.

The audience was fascinated by his "stage personality" as he exhorted his musicians, speaking to them, smiling and frowning in turn.

The program opened with Mozart's ever-popular Overture to the Magic Flute, captivating the listeners with a moving and sensitive interpretation of this classic work.

As in following numbers, some of the more subtle qualities of the orchestra, especially of the strings, appeared to be lost through poor acoustics.

Fantasia on a Theme by Paganini, for Double String Orchestra, by the famous contemporary British composer, Ralph Vaughan Williams, followed the opening selection. This work, based on English medieval ecclesiastical themes, brought out the full power of the great orchestra.

It featured a brilliant solo by concert master Rafael Drulan.

ALL ARE THRILLED
The first half of the program was completed by a lighter work by Richard Strauss: Rondo, "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks," telling us of the escapades and eventual demise of a 15th century practical joker.

The program concluded with Tchaikovsky's well-loved Fifth Symphony, whose moving, somber passages, its melodic medieval ecclesiastical, and thunderous finale, gave the orchestra a chance to show its full strength and versatility.

Home will feel the slightly "pop concert" first half of the program did not allow the orchestra to do itself justice, but the large majority of concertgoers were well pleased. All were thrilled by the great orchestra.

In the afternoon the orchestra played before an enthusiastic audience of over 1,700 Edmonton school students, presenting a well-chosen program for the occasion, Wagner and Johann Strauss—(S.B.)

Fence Holes Helping Work On New Hotel

Next time Edmonton Junior Chamber of Commerce is looking for a citizen of the year they shouldn't overlook a fellow named Frank Adby.

Maybe Mr. Adby didn't give a million bucks to the home for crippled saxophone players or let musicians with malaria like him to save humanity.

But at the same time if you look back on Edmonton's most popular citizen, this fellow Adby would have the sidewalk superintendents voting for him in a solid block.

Cathedral Has Lenten Guest
Very Rev. C. Swanson will be guest preacher at final Lenten noonday services at All Saints Cathedral.

Williamson in Edmonton, Iwan Swanson is now dean of New Westminster and rector of Christ Church Cathedral. His approval, for many years he was rector of St. Stephen's Cathedral, receiving his present appointment in Vancouver in 1948.

Dean Swanson will conduct noonday services at All Saints each day from Monday to Thursday, Good Friday he will conduct the three-hour service, from 12 noon to 3 p.m. On Palm Sunday he will be the guest preacher at the cathedral at 11 a.m. and at the Church of the Good Shepherd, Calder, at 1:30 p.m.

Mr. Adby didn't wait any time. By 9 a.m. yesterday before sidewalk superintendents had arrived for work, Mr. Adby's men had cut seven wonderful peepholes through the wooden curtain.

And they weren't just little knotholes. They were regular windows through the wooden curtain.

Dessicated Coconut
Intended for Baking

By Ilea Thrift

A smiling pink-cheeked young man told me an interesting story about dessicated coconut today.

And I was glad to hear the tale because there's been lots of misunderstanding about same dessicated coconut. Part of the misunderstanding is due to the very word "dessicated." Doesn't it suggest, ruin, destitute, synthetic . . . and a score of unflattering terms?

Well . . . isn't so! Dessicated coconut is the real McCoy shrouded from true coconut and preserving the true flavor of the coconut.

It's not as sweet as the longer, southern style coconut . . . but then it was never intended for the same use. The long, southern sweetness is meant to be a garnish, a topping . . . a decorative flavor addition.

Dessicated coconut is to be used for baking.

So there you have the story!

This business of standard sizes has been kicking about for many a moon has finally reached a set point. Bakers standard-sized cookies and kind goods will be established in 8 1/2 inches . . . by general request. But many manufacturers will follow the lead . . . and enlarge upon the setup.

Now here's something to cheer our hearts. It's a small matter of about six dollars for home dinner.

Now this may seem a bit unfair to you . . . but just bare to this explanation:

All you do is cut the gold leaf into the desired shape of cut-out decorative pattern. It's quite easy to trace on reverse side of metal transfer. Now it's time to soak the gold leaf after in water for 20 to 30 minutes. You side of the gold film and apply directly to the wood, metal, leather, glass or almost any smooth surface.

Next move is to smooth your ovals and let it dry at 80 degrees. The gold leaf will go far, will stand all normal wear. It is a usable bit of something when you're buying your own furniture, picture frames, lamp shades, trays, glassware, novelty items, decorations, bookbinding, etc.

Watch for the gold decals . . . they'll be available locally very soon.

If you're counting on butter linen for dressmaking detail duty a week or ten days for delivery.

CHECK UP ON YOURSELF—Are you guilty of such obvious nervous habits as playing with your earrings or grinding your heels into the carpet—these are unattractive mannerisms.

WHY GROW OLD

Check Up On Those
Nervous Mannerisms

By Josephine Lowman

We have all heard the expression "ants in his pants," which indicates that someone is restless. Many women have "ants" in their minds and mannerisms!

These women are never able to pursue idle thoughts in conversation or to have real interest in anything when others speak.

These same women are likely to have many nervous habits. They twitch and turn this way and that, turn the arms of the chair with their fingers, swing their feet violently forward and back, change positions almost constantly. They often run their hands or scratch their noses or continually run their eyes over the faces of those around them.

We are all guilty of some of these things from time to time, and it is a short-lived ailment which can be cured on ourselves once in awhile.

All of these jumpy postures and mannerisms and habits of conversation detract from charm. The personality can be animated and at the same time calm.

There are definite manners many women develop as they grow older. It is amazing how much younger a woman seems when she drops any of these which she has unconsciously developed.

The impression we make on others is made up of many small factors.

If you would like to check yourself to see if you have developed any of these habits, you may want my leaflet, No. 67 "Mannerisms Which Demean Age."

I can send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Wife Won't Tolerate His Hobby of Bird-Watching

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been a good and faithful husband to my wife, and her four children, now grown, bear testimony to the fact that I have been a splendid stepfather to them.

For more than twenty years I have carried out every desire of my wife, who is considerably older than myself. I am a very quiet and reserved man and my greatest pleasure is in my hobby, which is the love of birds. I wish to watch them. To this my wife strongly objects.

She ridicules me daily and tells my harmless little birds, and my little aviary at the far edge of the garden has been the cause of many a quarrel. I love peace at any cost, but I do not feel that I should give up this one hobby to please her, yet her constant nagging takes away the happiness I derive from it. What should I do?

ANSWER: Keep your birds. Assert your right to a little independence of thought and action. Tell your wife that you intend to invade your own birds. It is your right to a little independence of thought and action. Tell your wife that you intend to invade your own birds.

roughed over you so long and dominate you so completely that she has come to think of you as a mere coward who hasn't enough manhood to stand up for his own rights. That is why she wails you with your birds.

She wouldn't dare raise an objection to them if she knew that you would give her a good spanking and tell her just where she was off. If you would just tell her one time that because she was old enough to be your mother was no reason you had to obey her, you would hear no more about your little pets.

I think that one of the most inexplicable characteristics that women show is their almost universal lack of sympathy and understanding of their husband's hobbies. They forget that a hobby may be a lifesaver in taking a man's mind off the business worries and personal troubles.

Also, a hobby is first aid to a man's nerves.

Lloydminster Minister To Address Synodical

Presbyterian WMS Groups Continue Sessions of 36th Annual Meeting

Rev. Hugh Wilson of Lloydminster was guest speaker at last night's session of the 36th annual meeting of the Alberta Synodical WMS of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

Tobe on Fashion—

Wear Flowers Wherever You Go

This is one of the biggest flower springs in fashion history. There seems to be no limit to how many flowers you may wear, nor how many different ways you wear them.

Our smart designers have devised really new ways of wearing flowers—a small bloom massed at a low neckline as a fill-in instead of a daisy; flowers on a ribbon tied as a necklace; or flower cuffs and stockings.

The Paris dressmakers showed flowers throughout their collections. Each chose a single flower using it on everything, like a signature, carnation at Falbourn, at Dior; lilacs at Balmain; lilacs of the valley at Molinier; a tiny bunch of violets at Piguet.

I think it's a charming idea to adopt for yourself.

Added Height

Ancient Greek artists increased their apparent height by wearing wooden shoes on their feet and conical wigs on top of their heads, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Advertising Notices

A few generations back, you would have spoken of it as a "notice" if you placed an ad in a newspaper. Our term "advertisement" comes from the French "advertiser," which means to notify.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Baby's Milk, Utensils, Need Proper Cleansing

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

When a baby is fed on an artificial formula there are twin dangers to be met. The first is the use of an old or impure milk, the second is the use of feeding utensils and equipment which have not been properly cleaned and sterilized.

Germs grow rapidly in a warm medium like milk and all milk contains some bacteria. But, not enough to be harmful to the child unless it is allowed to get warm and stay warm, thus causing an enormous increase in the number of bacteria, or unless the feeding bottles and equipment are unclean and contaminate the milk.

All bottles and nipples should be rinsed with cold water, immediately after the baby finishes with them, and then must be washed daily with warm water, soda and rinsed and sterilized.

This may be done in two ways. The easiest way is to put the bottles in a sterilizer made for this purpose and follow directions for accomplishing this. Another way is to put the clean, rinsed bottles in a large kettle of cold water and let the water come to boil and bubble for three to five minutes.

Every bottle and all the utensils used for preparing the formula should get exactly the same treatment. Fish out bottles and utensils, lay them out on a clean towel and cover with a towel.

Since bottle-nipples rapidly grow soft and quickly become brittle, it is well to sterilize these separately. Use a small vessel, put in one teaspoon of salt to about a cup of water and have the water boiling before dipping the nipples. Let them boil for three minutes. The salt will help to keep them hard.

When the boiling is finished, pour the water off the nipples and put them in a sterilized glass jar with cover, or cover the empty can in which they have been boiled.

And do not forget that the cans of milk or the milk bottles have been handled by unknown hands. Be sure the bottles are washed well under running water and the can may be washed with soapy water and rinsed before it is punctured for pouring.

Our Infant No. 22—"Formula and Early Feeding," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.
